Orange, Texas, May 15 .- Sheriff P. F. Eastin arrived here this morning from Houston with R. W. J. Smith, who ha been confined in the Harris county jat for safe keeping ever since his conviction of murder in the district court of Orange county last October. Smith's attorney appealed the case, but the court of appeals affirmed the decision of the lower ourt, and at 2 o'clock this afternoon Smith was brought into court to have the sentence of death passed upon him.

After allowing Smith a few moments conversation with his attorneys, Judg West had the mandate of the court of apwest had the mandate of the court of ap-peals read, and then sentenced Smith to be hanged by the neck until he was dead in Friday, the 18th day of August, 1839. When asked by the judge if he had any-hing to say, Smith arose and said: "I would like to have started my chicker ranch but if I must have I was a like the anch, but if I must hang, I want plenty He seemed perfectly unconcerned when the sentence of death was pronounced, and smiled at acquaintances who sat near him in the court room.

The crime for which R. W. J. Smith has been condensed. The crime for which R. W. J. Smith has been condemned to suffer the death penalty was the murder of J. W. Roby, which occurred here September 8, 1898, the murder being committed while Roby was unarmed and had both hands up. [200-071.] Smith not to shoot him. There were no extenuating circumstances brought out in the trial and the jury were only a short time deliberating before bringing in their verdict.

This petition sets forth as a reason for the injunction that the elected board "are cting without warrant of law for the reason that the act under which the aforesaid election was held is unconstitutional and the constitutionality of the new law, and as that question has already been decided by the judge before whom these proceedings are to be had, it is hard to tell just what the object of this appointed board can be unless it is to obstruct and defeat Brownwood, that Judge Fisher of the Austin court of civil appeals will not be a candidate for re-election.
